Frequently asked questions

How do students learn at EduExperts?

Our tutoring programmes combine carefully researched and planned teaching resources and plans with qualified teachers.

We cover the entire the high school curricula spanning from NCEA to CIE to IB, and specialize in teaching younger age levels (from Year 1-10) in Maths, English and Science. Central to our success is being constantly informed of each of the curricula, and ensuring that we are the first ones to adapt our resources based on changes in curricula.

Is demand growing for after-school tutoring?

Absolutely! Parents are becoming more wary of students falling behind at school, especially because schools don't often wait for students to catch up. Parents of high achieving students are also keen to extend the student's abilities to ensure they achieve even greater academic heights. Numeracy and literacy standards, as well as the consequences of poor achievement at school. Those with high-achieving students are keen to see that potential is fully developed.

What do schools think of EduExperts?

EduExperts aims to establish good relationships with local schools as our tutoring services are complementary to the teaching provided at these schools. Over the past, teachers have become strong advocates for EduExperts and refer a significant amount of students to us. Most notably, most of our teachers are actually registered teachers at local schools!

Can I visit a centre to see what it's like?

Absolutely yes! We welcome observers during our after-school sessions. Spending time at a centre is the perfect way to figure out the dynamics of owning a centre and whether this kind of dynamic is the right fit for you. You can also get an early glimpse of what is expected from you running a centre!

How will I get students?

Our marketing programmes focus on the local community around your centre. For tutoring communities, it is crucial that each EduExperts centre builds a strong word of mouth reputation in their region. Leveraging the strong local area reputation, the EduExperts HQ team will further assist in student acquisition through digital marketing through WeChat, Facebook and other online portals.
